JEOPARDY!®

RULES FOR PLAYING

OBJECT:

Ask the correct questions and accumulate the most money/chips after three rounds: "JEOPARDY!", "DOUBLE JEOPARDY!", and "FINAL JEOPARDY!".

CONTENTS:

Plastic display board, 20 two-sided answer sheets, 3 clickers, sand timer, money chips, labels, wipe-off pen with red reveal lens, wipe off pad, pouch for chips.

The chip denominations are:

White = $200

Yellow = $400

Black = $1000

Red = $2000

SET UP:

Using the package back for reference, place the labels on the three clickers and the top and bottom areas of the game board.

Choose a player to be the emcee/banker. The emcee takes one of the game sheets and places it between the plastic game boards so that the regular JEOPARDY! side is facing through the windows.

Players will also need pencil and paper (not included) to use in the FINAL JEOPARDY! Round.

PLAYING:

1. Choose a player to go first. That player selects one of the five categories displayed on the upper row of the board, and any one of the dollar values. Generally, the higher the dollar value, the greater the degree of difficulty.

2. The emcee places the red reveal lens over the selected window and reads the answer out loud.

3. The first player to press their clicker asks the question.

4. The emcee slowly lifts the sheet from the top until the correct question appears in the same window and announces whether the player is correct or not. The player's question does not have to match exactly, but should have the same general meaning.

If the player's response is not in the form of a question, the emcee should instruct the player to word the response as a question. This prompting will not be allowed in DOUBLE JEOPARDY! Round.

5. If the player's response is correct, the player gets the amount of chips indicated on the sheet. If the player's response is not correct, the player loses that amount. If a player asks an incorrect question worth more chips than he has, he loses all of his chips, but is still in the game. Players will not have 'negative dollar amounts' and cannot borrow chips.

6. If the response is incorrect the first of the other players to press their clicker has the opportunity to ask the question. The player responds and wins or loses the same dollar amount. Play then proceeds as above. If a player's response is declared incorrect, that player does not get a second chance to ask a question for that particular answer. When an answer is done, the emcee marks an "X", using the wipe-off pen, under that window to remind players not to ask for it again.

7. The player who asks the correct question chooses the next category and dollar amount. If no player gets it right, the emcee reads the correct question aloud. The player who selected the previous category and dollar amount then makes the next selection.

REMEMBER: one player selects the category and dollar amount, but all players have the opportunity of responding to every answer (except Daily Doubles).

DAILY DOUBLE

There is one Daily Double in the JEOPARDY! Round and two in Double Jeopardy!. When the red reveal lens shows the words "Daily Double" here's what happens:

The emcee asks the player who made that selection how many chips they want to put into Jeopardy!. It can be any amount up to the total amount he has. If the player has less than $1,000, the player can declare any amount of chips up to $1,000.

The Daily Double answer is read aloud by the emcee. Only the player who selected the question can respond, and that player will win or lose the amount he placed in Jeopardy! (except that a player cannot end up with less than zero chips). Even if this player goes down to zero, he/she is still in the game.

After all 25 answers have been played, DOUBLE JEOPARDY! begins.

The emcee turns the answer sheet over, and places it between the boards so that the DOUBLE JEOPARDY! side is face up. The dollar values of the questions are worth double of those in regular JEOPARDY!

Using the marker the emcee writes the word "Final" under any one of the $2000 windows. That will be last answer read and is the FINAL JEOPARDY! answer.

To start DOUBLE JEOPARDY!, the player with the least amount of money chips chooses the first category and dollar amount. (If two or more players tie for the least amount of money chips, the oldest player chooses.)

Daily Double:

There are two Daily Double answers in DOUBLE JEOPARDY!. If a player who has less than $2,000 gets a Daily Double, that player can declare any amount of chips up to $2,000 to be placed in Jeopardy!. As in JEOPARDY!, a player can win or lose the amount of chips placed in Jeopardy! (except that a player cannot end up with less than zero).

FINAL JEOPARDY!:

When all the answers except the one marked "Final" have been played, it is time for the last round of the game.

Players decide how much they want to place into Jeopardy!, from $0 to a maximum equal to the amount of chips they have won so far. Players will either increase or decrease their winnings by the amount of chips they have in Jeopardy!.

Players secretly write their amount on a piece of paper and place the paper, face down, in front of them. The emcee reads the answer out loud and turns the sand timer over.

On a separate piece of paper, players write the question they think is correct. When the timer runs out, players put down their pens. Starting with the player who has the least total amount of chips, players reveal their questions which are read out loud by the emcee and also reveal how much in chips they put into JEOPARDY! Chips are given/taken as correct and incorrect questions are given.

WINNING THE GAME:

The player with the most money chips wins
